Auto dealers that sell new cars sometimes represent only one make of car, such as a Cadillac dealer. Some auto dealers will sell new cars for many makes of cars, such as a dealer that sells Audis and Saabs out of the same location. Many auto dealers have lots in an auto mall so that potential customers can shop and compare their new cars to the competitor's new cars. Customers who visit auto dealers located in auto malls often find that the time it takes to make a decision on a make or model is greatly reduced. People shopping for new cars often take their trade-in with them to expedite closing the deal on a new car.
